'Fastest' Skier Competes Against Record

Speed water skier Butch Peterson of Los Angeles, the world's fastest with a clocking of 106 mph, will attempt to break this record at Long Beach Marine Stadium in the fourth annual Regatta of Champions today.

Peterson, who set the mark in the same event two years ago, is a dual entry in the $2750 regatta. He has announced he will compete in the men's ski race as well as make an assault on his own drag speed record.

The 22-year-old collegian, who is majoring in finance and marketing at USC, is an expert snow skier, a former all-state wrestler and football star.

Also in jeopardy will be the women's drag record for the quarter mile. The current holder of the mark, Jane Mobley of Gardena (at 78.5 mph), and the former champion, Marge Lisbonbe of Arizona (76.9) have entered.

Water skiing will augment the two-day regatta, which will pit the fastest 32 boats of all sizes Sunday over the mile Long Beach marine course.

The inboard races will be patterned after automobile racing with a trophy dash and heats, according to the co-sponsors, J. C. Agajanian and the Los Angeles Boat and Ski Club.
